

Mercury

I came here today because I want to express my support for the DEP's proposed mercury regulation. I am currently a student at Carnegie Mellon University, and someday I hope to have a family here in Pennsylvania. When that time comes I don't want to be worried that my wife is consuming too much fish or that my baby won't be healthy, and I don't think any of us should have to be worried about that.

By passing this regulation, we have the ability to reduce our mercury pollution by a very significant amount with hardly any tradeoff. Under the circumstances I think the state owes it to us to make sure that mercury is not a problem for young families and babies.
