Good morning,

I am not a dog breeder, but I have been in the past. Right now I have two pure breed dogs. They were bought from a very reputable dog breeder. She takes great care to insure the quality and health of her puppies and her adult dogs.

The new laws that are being proposed will put her and other small breeders out of business and hurt the dog field in Pennsylvania as a whole. While I totally agree that puppy mills and any kind of animal abuse should be reported and stopped, what is being proposed will eliminate many fine bloodlines and make it harder for the person who just wants a good quality dog to obtain one without going out of the state. Going to a breeder you don't know means you may not end up with a puppy that was as good as the one you had previously from a known Pennsylvania breeder.

The new law will not stop puppy mills and abuse, but put small legitimate dog breeders out of business. I sincerely hope these laws will have a second look and be changed before they go into affect.

Pure breed dog lover.
