Dear Ms. Bender,

I am writing to show my support for the amended regulations to the current dog laws.

There should be a distinction between livestock and companion animals. Dogs have been bred for hundreds of years to be with people, Not caged 24-7 with no humane contact. No animal should have to live under the conditions that now exist.

I urge the state of Pennsylvania to implement more humane laws which include larger cages, temperature control, medical care by a DVM, and limit the number of dogs per kennel. How can any kennel provide adequate care for so many animals?

It is a Pennsylvania shame to be known as the puppy mill Capital of the East Coast.

Puppies are not a crop! It is time to be less "farmer friendly" and give the message that this cruelty will no longer be passed over or tolerated.

Thank you,

Elaine M. Brim
