Truck owners are working toward alternatives to idling for temperature protection, but we don't yet have a viable, economic replacement. That day is coming soon and all will be adopting something. We cannot completly stop idling yet. Meanwhile, risking getting a ticket to stay comfortable, or trying to live in an overheated or freezing cold room, (yes, we sleep and live in our cabs) is just added stress to the human driver.

Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Michele L. Tate
