Subject: Proposed Rulemaking - Diesel Vehicle Idling; and Auxiliary Power Systems (#7-422) 25 AN 9: 22

Re: Proposed Rulemaking - Diesel Vehicle Idling; and Auxiliary Power Systems (#7

The Environmental Quality Board (EQB) has received the following comments regarding the above-referenced proposed rulemaking.

Commentor Information: Richard Hubatka rhubatka53@hotmail.com PO Box 35396 Phoenix AZ 85069 US ^^^^^^^

I think these idling laws are rediculous. When you lawmakers are making laws you can go home and set your heat and/or air conditioning to whatever you want and run it all day and night. How about you turn off your heat and/or ac for 55 mins each hour. You see our trucks are our houses. About this so called global warming is a bunch of crap as the earth goes through these cycles. There is no global warming. If everyone was really concerned they keep the space shuttle on the ground and all of you politicians would take regular flights where ever you go instead of your own charter flight like everyone else does. Take that law and shove it where the sun dont shine.

Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Michele L. Tate
