I'm glad to hear that someone is finally speaking out on diesel pollution. The odor is so pungent and sickening that it causes me to suffer for days with severe headaches and nausea if I should happen to be out near a truck or bus that uses diesel. We're way over do in devising a way to filter out diesel pollution or ban the use of vehicles that use it all together. That will encourage someone to come up with an idea. I'm sure someone already has, and the reason it hasn't been initiated I'm sure has to do with money. We're not going to have a plante to live on in a few years if our intelligent leaders don't wise up.

Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Michele L. Tate
