Subject: high school state testing

2008 MAY 29 AM 9:38

INDEPENDENT REGULATORY
REVIEW COMMISSION

Why have a school board? If we do testing you decide what we teach.

Who is wise enough to make that decision for the whole state?

Graduation rates will decline. Is that right by all children? We are not all made the same way. We do not learn and give back information the same way!

A test does not prove a person will be a knowledgeable, wise, good citizen!

This will cost the tax payers too much. The state already does not pay its share and now you will make school districts come up with more money!

Too much government! Not by the people but by the government!
I vote a dead NO!!!!!!!!!!!!
