As a practicing nurse in an area lacking adequate services I am convinced that expanding the prescriptive authority of Nurse Practitioners would improve the quality of care and outcomes for the individuals that I serve. I specialize in acute care behavioral health and often provide services for persons having difficulty accessing adequate community based services. Nurse Practitioners, if permitted to utilize their expertise, could significantly augment and improve the range of services provided to this, and other, segments of our communities.

Sincerely
Heather Snyder, RN-BC
