Surely, you won't favor either the healthiest producers of milk nor the health of Pennsylvanians if you pass the above legislation. . I have lived 39 years there (though I now live in VA where I pick up my gallon of raw milk weekly). It appears that the greater pressure is from industrial producers to shut down the raw milk dairies.

Surely also, you must know that some of the people in PA will always use industrially produced milk products and some will demand raw milk products. The rights of both groups are at risk if you pass this legislation; it means that democracy no longer counts in PA.

I will probably be moving back to PA and I will certainly join the fight, which won't be over even if you pass these regulations.

Sincerely, Mary Gorka, RN, CHTP
