To whom it may concern:

Please do not interfere with the availability of raw milk in PA. I depend on Pennsylvania for this clean wonderful food. It is one of the best things about the state. Raw milk is not dangerous- dirty milk is. We have come a long way since the dairy industry needed pasteurization to provide germ free milk- but with what we know now, raw milk is healthier for us, and even tolerable to some with milk allergies. Think also of the family farms that will suffer with the changes to your current laws. In other states, people are fighting for the right to have access to raw milk-so please think forward, not backward, and leave the access to raw milk as it is.

Thank you,
