Dear Sir:

My family orders 3 gallons of milk per week from Paradise Pastures in Lancaster and we never had any illness from the raw milk. Raw milk, properly handled does not contain pathogens that pose a threat to people. Test only for the germs that harm people. Farmers are incentivized to be certain that the product they make is safe. If they ship a dangerous product they will be out of business fast. Improving access to raw milk will be a plus for the economy, the farmers and the health of the people who drink it. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Cornelius Connors
