Subject: Dogs in PA

On behalf of animals everywhere, particularly those who are suffering in Pennsylvania thanks to the fact that you refuse to follow the laws that were enacted in 2008, I am pleading with those of you in power to finally do the right thing FOR THE ANIMALS and require all the humane treatment that was brought about by the 2008 Dog Law.

What good is the will of the people if you refuse to enforce humane treatment for these helpless animals?

No response is necessary, I do not care to hear any rationale or lame excuses. But I am asking, as someone who is working hard in Missouri to get our backwards hillbilly laws regarding the treatment of animals changed, that you at least live by the changes that were brought about in 2008. There is certainly more that you could do, but I imagine that would be too much to expect. So, at least please stick to what was agreed upon in '08.

Sincerely,
Carol Coe
