

Cheryl Fair
514 S. Railroad St
Myerstown, PA Myerstown

Form Letter
B
1-4

August 12, 2010.

Honorable Arthur Coccodrilli
333 Market Street, 14th Floor
Harrisburg, PA 17101

Dear Chairman Coccodrilli,

I am requesting your consideration of the following negative points of the proposed 7PA Code 28A which is being evaluated by the Independent Regulatory Review Commission – Document 2785. As a dog breeder endeavoring to improve and maintain quality and trustworthy business practices, I am concerned that this proposal will be detrimental and destructive to the professional breeder industry.

First of all, I believe that the Department of Agriculture has grossly underestimated the true cost of engineering design, climate control equipment and installation, maintenance, and energy costs that a kennel would have to expend in order to comply with the Canine Health Board's new "final form" minimum standards. In today's economy, dog breeders are having more and more difficulty maintaining top quality and producing sufficient income to maintain their businesses. This proposal would place a considerable strain on many breeders who are extremely qualified and professional. The expenditure is not necessary and, in some cases, detrimental to the advancement of good practices.

HVAC engineers have concluded through research that the energy cost alone will cost more money than most kennels' make each year in order to comply with the final form regulations. The passage of this final form bill will, without a doubt, force many quality and excellent breeders to close their doors.

The Department has tried to create new law by going far beyond Act 119 in many areas of their new set of regulation requests. IRRRC was established to make sure that this type of "over grab" of power establishing unauthorized regulatory requirements would be stopped with checks and balances.

I encourage you to make careful consideration of these negative aspects of this proposal and vote "NO" to the proposed changes.

Truly yours,
Cheryl Fair

Darlene Fair
40 Summer Mountain Road
Bernville, PA Bernville

August 12, 2010.

Honorable Arthur Coccodrilli
333 Market Street, 14th Floor
Harrisburg, PA 17101

Dear Chairman Coccodrilli,

I am requesting your consideration of the following negative points of the proposed 7PA Code 28A which is being evaluated by the Independent Regulatory Review Commission – Document 2785. As a dog breeder endeavoring to improve and maintain quality and trustworthy business practices, I am concerned that this proposal will be detrimental and destructive to the professional breeder industry.

First of all, I believe that the Department of Agriculture has grossly underestimated the true cost of engineering design, climate control equipment and installation, maintenance, and energy costs that a kennel would have to expend in order to comply with the Canine Health Board's new "final form" minimum standards. In today's economy, dog breeders are having more and more difficulty maintaining top quality and producing sufficient income to maintain their businesses. This proposal would place a considerable strain on many breeders who are extremely qualified and professional. The expenditure is not necessary and, in some cases, detrimental to the advancement of good practices.

HVAC engineers have concluded through research that the energy cost alone will cost more money than most kennels' make each year in order to comply with the final form regulations. The passage of this final form bill will, without a doubt, force many quality and excellent breeders to close their doors.

The Department has tried to create new law by going far beyond Act 119 in many areas of their new set of regulation requests. IRRC was established to make sure that this type of "over grab" of power establishing unauthorized regulatory requirements would be stopped with checks and balances.

I encourage you to make careful consideration of these negative aspects of this proposal and vote "NO" to the proposed changes.

Truly yours,

Melvin Glick
450 Rohrer Mill
Ronks, PA Ronks

August 12, 2010.

Honorable Arthur Coccodrilli
333 Market Street, 14th Floor
Harrisburg, PA 17101

Dear Chairman Coccodrilli,

I am requesting your consideration of the following negative points of the proposed 7PA Code 28A which is being evaluated by the Independent Regulatory Review Commission – Document 2785. As a dog breeder endeavoring to improve and maintain quality and trustworthy business practices, I am concerned that this proposal will be detrimental and destructive to the professional breeder industry.

First of all, I believe that the Department of Agriculture has grossly underestimated the true cost of engineering design, climate control equipment and installation, maintenance, and energy costs that a kennel would have to expend in order to comply with the Canine Health Board's new "final form" minimum standards. In today's economy, dog breeders are having more and more difficulty maintaining top quality and producing sufficient income to maintain their businesses. This proposal would place a considerable strain on many breeders who are extremely qualified and professional. The expenditure is not necessary and, in some cases, detrimental to the advancement of good practices.

HVAC engineers have concluded through research that the energy cost alone will cost more money than most kennels' make each year in order to comply with the final form regulations. The passage of this final form bill will, without a doubt, force many quality and excellent breeders to close their doors.

The Department has tried to create new law by going far beyond Act 119 in many areas of their new set of regulation requests. IRRRC was established to make sure that this type of "over grab" of power establishing unauthorized regulatory requirements would be stopped with checks and balances.

I encourage you to make careful consideration of these negative aspects of this proposal and vote "NO" to the proposed changes.

Truly yours,

2

1 /

Samuel Fisher Jr
3310 East Gordon Road
Gordonville, PA Gordonville

2785

August 12, 2010.

Honorable Arthur Coccodrilli
333 Market Street, 14th Floor
Harrisburg, PA 17101

Dear Chairman Coccodrilli,

I am requesting your consideration of the following negative points of the proposed 7PA Code 28A which is being evaluated by the Independent Regulatory Review Commission – Document 2785. As a dog breeder endeavoring to improve and maintain quality and trustworthy business practices, I am concerned that this proposal will be detrimental and destructive to the professional breeder industry.

First of all, I believe that the Department of Agriculture has grossly underestimated the true cost of engineering design, climate control equipment and installation, maintenance, and energy costs that a kennel would have to expend in order to comply with the Canine Health Board's new "final form" minimum standards. In today's economy, dog breeders are having more and more difficulty maintaining top quality and producing sufficient income to maintain their businesses. This proposal would place a considerable strain on many breeders who are extremely qualified and professional. The expenditure is not necessary and, in some cases, detrimental to the advancement of good practices.

HVAC engineers have concluded through research that the energy cost alone will cost more money than most kennels' make each year in order to comply with the final form regulations. The passage of this final form bill will, without a doubt, force many quality and excellent breeders to close their doors.

The Department has tried to create new law by going far beyond Act 119 in many areas of their new set of regulation requests. IRRC was established to make sure that this type of "over grab" of power establishing unauthorized regulatory requirements would be stopped with checks and balances.

I encourage you to make careful consideration of these negative aspects of this proposal and vote "NO" to the proposed changes.

Truly yours,

Samuel E Fisher