

---

From: dood@windstream.net
Sent: Thursday, January 07, 2010 1:42 PM
To: EP, RegComments
Subject: Outdoor Wood Fired Boilers

Is there anybody left in government that cares about the freedom of the people? Where does it stop? For or against we need to understand that everytime government tells we the people what, when, and how, we all lose. You may or may not like outdoor furnaces but a ban just takes away another choice that you make for yourself. Remember the next regulation may affect you and your choices. This needs to be handled on a case by case basis by local government not the state. What about our energy independence from oil and other countries that have been and will be able to control our economy? When did the recession start? When the price of fuel went up. What about coal? Are we not going to be able to burn coal in this a coal producing state? Outdoor furnaces may not be the answer to our problems with the energy but it's an American choice and one way to cut high heating bills. Do not enact this legislation. Give us the right to make our own choices. Thank you for consideration to this matter. Rex and Patricia Huffman 1110 Ceylon Road Carmichaels Pa 15320 dood@windstream.net

RECEIVED
2010 JAN 11 AM 9:35
INDEPENDENT REGULATORY REVIEW COMMISSION