Subject: OWB Regulation

I would like to add my name to the growing list of supporters requesting that OWBs be regulated. I have heard horror stories from people who are being affected by the smoke from these appliances. These people have no options available to them except to take legal action which is extremely expensive and many, if not most, people cannot afford to take this route.

All these people want is air free of the toxic emissions of the wood smoke. This should be the right of all of us, yet the users of these OWBs have taken that right away and simply do not care how they are affecting those around them and the environment.

I have witnessed a few OWBs and am still in shock as to the amount of smoke and stench that comes out of them.

Please, for the sake of many, regulate these OWBs or ban them entirely. We all need air to breathe.
