Subject: Outdoor Wood-Fired BoilersPROPOSED RULEMAKING 25 PA.?CODE CHS. 121 AND 123

I would like to comment on this proposed rulemaking regarding outdoor wood boilers.

I do not feel the "state" should be setting a "blanket" set of rules and regulations on these types of home heat systems. One set of regulations does not fit all PA residents. I feel each township/city/borough should regulate the mentioned heating systems based on their size and population.

We live in the borough of Ulysses, we own 150+ acres and have no neighbors, so what difference does it make if the chimney is 50 above the highest peek of MY home? One size does not fit all, PERIOD!

By installing an outdoor wood boiler we have saved thousands of dollars a year heating our home, this has help us keep our household running within our budget and keeping our property taxes paid in a timely manner! Not to mention safer than having a wood burning device IN THE HOME.
