Subject: regulations on outdoor burners

2009 NOV 30 PM 3:35

INDEPENDENT REGULATORY REVIEW COMMISSION

To Whom it May Concern:

As a family who burns wood as the primary method of heating our home, I strongly oppose the proposed regulations on outdoor wood-fired furnaces/boilers. These regulations are not only an infringement on our personal freedom; they hinder our efforts to use heat our homes with wood, a homegrown, renewable energy source that is abundant and inexpensive in rural Pennsylvania. Besides that, many area municipalities already have ordinances that deal with outdoor wood burners, and that is the way it should be handled.

How do you expect us to become energy independent and protect the environment if you take away all of our other options?

Sincerely,

Mr. & Mrs. Thomas and Sarah Reid
