Dear Sir:

I believe it is wrong to pass these restrictions on outside wood stoves.

A working couple in America has invested in these stoves & set them up to use, because we can not afford natural gas heat.

We should not be penalized by having to have a retroactive requirement enforced upon us.

Middle America (people who work hard for a salary) has been hit enough in this country.

The price of heating oil, natural gas & L.P. gas rose & we could not afford to heat our home.

Example: My decision to seek an outside <sup>wood</sup> stove was based on a winter of $500.<sup>00</sup> to $750.<sup>00</sup> per month of heating with natural gas.

Do not pass laws stopping the use of outside wood stoves or retroactive rules.

Sincerely

Emily Shaffer
