Subject: PA State Regulations control outdoor wood fire burners

DEC 7 REC'D
INDEPENDENT REGULATORY
REVIEW COMMISSION

I would like to request that you reconsider this proposed regulation. I realize that there are several people within the state who misuse these outdoor burners by burning materials other than wood in them. Is there some way that these people can be held accountable and penalized for this misuse without the need to penalize everyone else? In these days of the economic crunch many people will not be able to afford to follow these regulations without it creating a hardship to their families. I would ask that you please consider some other form of solution to this problem. Thank you.
