Dear Members of the Independent Regulatory Review Commission:

I am writing to express my support for the final version of the Chapter 95, Wastewater Treatment Requirements, approved by the Environmental Quality Board on May 17, 2010.

The monitoring, treatment and disposal of wastewater from natural gas drilling is a critical matter. Life itself depends on clean water, and we have already seen devastation to our environment from drilling accidents. We cannot leave it up to the industry to be good stewards. We must spell out the requirements and put monitoring in place to see that they are observed.

I urge the IRRC to approve the Chapter 95 regulations at your meeting on June 17th.

Sincerely,

Norma Van Dyke
