INDEPENDENT REGULATORY REVIEW COMMISSION

I am writing to express my concern for the springs, streams, rivers, wells, and wildlife in Pennsylvania.

I am especially afraid that the lack of regulation of Marcellus Shale drilling and disposal of frack water may mean disaster for Pennsylvania and contiguous states. If Pennsylvania does not enact strong standards and enforce them rigorously we will face disaster on more than a state scale. Water that is so important to all living things could be irreparably damaged with no chance of reclamation.

Already we have experienced the tragedy of Dunkard Creek that was needless and could happen anywhere at anytime without stringent monitoring. Pennsylvania does not have water and wildlife to spare. This precious natural resource needs protection.

Sincerely,
Shelley Pisoni
