Message:

Say NO to Common Core. Parents will not have a say in their child's education under Common Core also Teachers would have little control over their classrooms under Common Core. Common Core is a one-size-fits-all education policy that assumes every students learns exactly the same. Common Core is a poor mandate that's going to push arts and science even further out of schools. It will limit the teaching of literature and creative writing in classrooms, and end up being used to rate schools and teachers unfairly. I believe in letting each state make its own decisions which has worked out great for kids in places like Massachusetts, where the standards are high and the tests are demanding. Do not let Common Core come into Pennsylvania and ruin our schools.
