Subject: Stop Common Core

Message:

I have two children in school and it hasn't seemed to effect my oldest at the moment but my youngest it has. She is in 1st grade and she is back to kindergarden knowledge and not learning anything new. She now hates school and thinks it is boring. I am working w/ her teacher to address this because it is unacceptable for a 1st grader to not want to go to school daily because it is all repeat. She is smart and deserves to learn new things. Also, when did it become standard practice for a math problem, even if it is the wrong answer, it is correct according to common Core as long as you know how to get to the answer. $5+4$ will always equal 9 so why if a student writes 8 is that correct? And it is not right that our govt held the race to the top campaign for the schools. You know the schools are going to fall for it seeing how all the schools are making large cuts effecting our students even more. Wake up and do the right thing for our future generations. Thank you for your time!
