Message:

Dear Madam, Sir, I am writing testimony to repeal Common Core. From my experience and research it is not in the best interest of American children and their families. We have 2 children attending a school where C.Core just started being implemented. The underlying structure of data mining and starting to treat our children as "future workers", instead of unique individuals who deserve to be treated and educated as such. The amount of data that Common Core plans to eventually gather is horrifying. We need to educate free thinkers, and innovators, not potential "future customers" as Bill Gates is heard saying, on video. I want my children to have the possibility of being the next "Bill Gates", not data mined, and tracked to become one of his "customers" or "workers". Keep the educational control local, not corporate and centralized government focused. Sincerely, Joan Falquet
