

Cooper, Kathy

---

From: John Loughman <loughman@pulsenet.com>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2013 9:44 PM
To: Help
Subject: Re: IRRC Website - New Message

thank you for your reply. you can publish anything i have written to you as public record. i don't like common core and i would say that to anyone.

On 10/24/13, Help <help@irrc.state.pa.us> wrote:

> Thank you for contacting Pennsylvania's Independent Regulatory Review > Commission ("IRRC"). If you have submitted comments on a regulation > please note that, under Pennsylvania's Regulatory Review Act, IRRC is > required to provide unrestricted public access to all comments that we > receive on pending regulations. Therefore, your comments will be > shared with the agency responsible for that regulation and posted on > our website along with other public comments on the regulation.

>
> If you are contacting us on another matter, we will respond to your > inquiry as soon as possible.

>
> Thank you.

>
> From: ContactForm@state.pa.us [<mailto:ContactForm@state.pa.us>]
> Sent: Wednesday, October 23, 2013 9:50 PM
> To: Help
> Subject: IRRC Website - New Message

> [The Independent Regulatory Review Commission]

> A new message has arrived from the IRRC Website

> First Name: john

> Last Name: loughman

> Company:

> Email: loughman@pulsenet.com<mailto:>

> Subject: common core

> Message:

> I am opposed to common core. Our schools should not be geared to the > lowest common denominator but also challenge the brightest. schools > should be run by local citizens and parents not the feds. The gov't > doesn't need more info on students and families. We need education not > indoctrination, excellence not mediocrity. Why are the feds running our local local schools anyway?

2013 OCT 25 AM 10:05

RECEIVED
IRRC

> Does the constitution say they should? It's obvious they can't run our > healthcare
>