Message:

As a parent, taxpayer, and concerned citizen I implore you to put the brakes on implementing national education standards in PA. When has it ever worked that ceding more control to the federal government improved a situation? On the contrary, nearly every state and local government decrys the overabundance of federal regulations and mandates and the cost of compliance. The amount of money PA will receive to offset the cost will never match the actual costs. Plus the federal government -- which really means us -- is already heading towards a financial cliff from the money it is already spending. Equally important, our nation was founded on the idea of a limited federal role in our daily lives. The founders purposely left most decisions in the hands of the states and the citizens. Pennsylvanians deserve to retain the right to make our own educational decisions. Please don't cede those rights away. Sincerely, Colleen Hroncich
