Please take time to consider IRRC #2976 carefully as even a quick reading leads one to question how much nationalizing PA education would end up costing PA in the long run for a small money infusion now. Also the continual use of "international standards" and "global performance" are troublesome.. PA should always strive to have a better standard and not be drug down to the level foreign teaching practices. The future of PA's children (and their future jobs) should not be determined by outside countries in any possible way. ( I'm sure they want their children to be ahead of other countries...)
