I am a homeschooling mom and I do not approve of national Common Core standards or changing Chapter 4 education regulations. The fact that this is being done with no public hearing or discussion is an abomination to our country and everything it stands for. I am appalled that this is going on in the United States of America. This is unconstitutional and I have the right to educate my children, in fact, it is for my country that I do this. The lack of values taught in today's public school is a disgrace and it is no wonder our country is in such a state. My job, as a parent, is to raise my children as best I can. I am doing that. It is MY job, not the governments.
