Dear counsel members:

It has come to my attention that changes are being considered with regard to limiting online continuing education in the state of Pennsylvania. I strongly object to limiting the credits that may be earned via online coursework. Online courses save me money on travel and hotel costs, but more importantly these courses afford me a broader range of educational material. Without the online availability, I tend to only choose courses based on the most convenient date and location with little or no weight given to the educational value of the courses.

Thank you for your consideration,
