Subject: Proposed change to continuing education limiting asynchronous learning

2014 AUG 29 AM 11:44

To Whom It May Concern:

I wish to comment on the proposed change to the continuing education intending to limit asynchronous learning.

I feel that limiting asynchronous learning immensely limits the amount of programs available. There are currently seemingly endless possibilities for educational opportunities using asynchronous learning. By limiting this to 12 hours, you will be removing a wealth of educational benefits and opportunities.

Please also consider the cost of this change. Being a single mother and recent graduate with exorbitant loans, with the state of the economy and lack of available jobs, affording distance learning and synchronous online learning could become impossible.

Lastly, maintaining a reasonable consistency with health care providers in general should be a priority. As I understand, medical doctors and mental health doctors, as well as other health professionals are able to complete all continuing education via asynchronous learning. They have set the standard and I see no reason to surpass them.

This profession has certainly had hurdles to overcome and continues to face challenges; lets not make it more difficult than it already is to bring the love of chiropractic to as many people as we can.

Thank you,
