Dear Karen Molchanaw,

I believe the Board of Education's proposals IRRC #3146 & 3147 are dangerous. To force a person to obtain vaccinations is wrong. The "herd immunity" vaccine theory is not supported by data, and therefore is not strong enough of an argument to take away individual rights. We, as American citizens should have the choice of whether we want foreign material injected into our bodies. The Board of Education's proposal for "herd immunity" is misleading and inaccurate as to its effectiveness. The high rate of measles vaccinations is a perfect example of how immunizations can be extremely ineffective. Natural immunity is the way to go verses vaccine induced (supposed) immunity. i am totally against both of the proposals. For the people that are going to be affected by these proposals, the Board did a poor job of informing the group that will be affected. This is a very shady way of doing business.
