RE: Proposal IRRC #3147 and changes pending

To Whom it May Concern:

Regarding reduced flexibility for provisional admittance to school:

While parents are not required to immunize their children until they begin school (or homeschooling), under the proposed changes they may be under too much of a time issue. If parents are pushed to immunize within such a short period of time, they choose not to at all. More time should be allocated for this to take place as five days is really insufficient.

Regarding changes to documenting a prior history of chickenpox:

If children have already had the chickenpox they should not have to be immunized, hence, a statement from the parents should cover this.

Sincerely,

Denise Gens
