

3202

Form Letter F 1-52

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Antoinette Yachna <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 4:20 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Antoinette Yachna

antie12@hotmail.com

1011 Martarano Dr

Throop, Pennsylvania 18447

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Amber Miller <amiller@usw.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 4:11 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Amber Miller

amiller@usw.org

61 Roycroft Ave

Pittsburgh , Pennsylvania 15228

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Louise Wilson <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 4:04 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Louise Wilson

louiseannwilson@hotmail.com

182 Mallory Lane

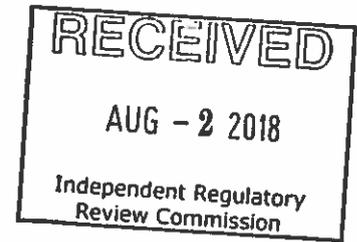

Mineral Point, Pennsylvania 15942

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Barry Cutler <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 4:23 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Barry Cutler
bcutler529@gmail.com
115 Wyndmoor Rd
Springfield, Pennsylvania 19064

Kathy Cooper

3202

From: Fred Newlin <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:56 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Fred Newlin

psunewlin@aol.com

3614 Allegheny Rd.

Erie, Pennsylvania 16508

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Tim Miller <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:52 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Tim Miller
timiller203@gmail.com
500 N 18th St
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19130

3202

Kathy Cooper

From: Don Sherman <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:47 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Don Sherman

realtor94@gmail.com

4355 Salmon st

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19137

3202

Kathy Cooper

From: James Keenan <jimkeenan48@icloud.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:38 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

James Keenan

jimkeen48@icloud.com

108 Madison Road

Lansdowne, Pennsylvania 19050

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Greg Mikovich <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:37 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Greg Mikovich

gmikovich@yahoo.com

5302 Susan Rd

Coopersburg , Pennsylvania 18036

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Mark Cyphert <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:36 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Mark Cyphert

lakeeriegalloway@yahoo.com

10361 Townline rd

North East, Pennsylvania 16428

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Andrea Saunders <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:36 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to SUPPORT the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)].

Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women.

When Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 BILLION in their yearly salary.

We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level.

Workers should be compensated for EVERY HOUR they work, regardless of their classification.

Andrea Saunders
a\_jamison@hotmail.com
1133 Delaware Avenue
Bethlehem, Pennsylvania 18015

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: TOYNETTE PALMER <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:36 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

TOYNETTE PALMER
CHOCOLAT076@AOL.COM
518 N 9TH STREET
READING, Pennsylvania 19604

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Joann Miehler <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:35 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Joann Mieh

ihmm91@gmail.com

12 Heavens Way

Loysville, Pennsylvania 17047

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: deborah shaver <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:35 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

deborah shaver
deborahshaver1945@gmail.com
360 taylor ave. apt. 13D, 13D
easton, Pennsylvania 18042

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: REID GOLDBERG <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:35 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

REID GOLDBERG

regoldberg@aol.com

140 springhouse lane

Pittsburgh , Pennsylvania 15238

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Mark White <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:35 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Mark White

saabson@yahoo.com

845 Lovington Dr

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15216

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Leslie Patrick <lpatrick@bucknell.edu>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:31 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Leslie Patrick

lpatrik@bucknell.edu

2460 Pleasant Grove Road

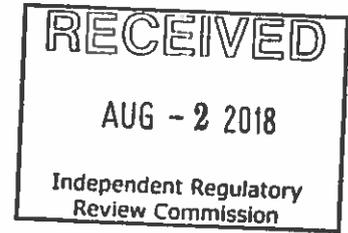

Mifflinburg, Pennsylvania 17844

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Robert Gibb <rngibb@earthlink.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:30 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Robert Gibb
rngibb@earthlink.net
5036 Revenue Stret
Homestead, Pennsylvania 15120

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Ed Hill <ehill_jr@ibew.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:30 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Ed Hill

ehill\_ir@ibew.org

164 Thorndale Dr

Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania 15010

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: exzell bradley <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:28 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

exzell bradley

exzellb@yahoo.com

235 Bissell Ave

Oil City, Pennsylvania 16301

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: walt garvin <wallygee@rcn.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:28 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

walt garvin

wallygee@rcn.com

3536 oakland rd

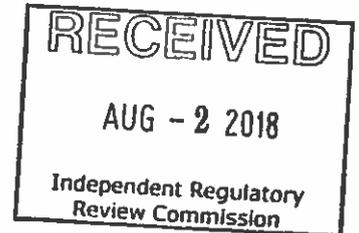

bethlehem, Pennsylvania 18020

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Patrick McMahon <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:27 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Patrick McMahon
pmcm9880@gmail.com
3711 N Woodland Circle
Gibsonia, Pennsylvania 15044

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: James Anthony <janthony4017@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:26 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

James Anthony

ianthony4017@comcast.net

770 Welsh Rd.

Huntingdon Valley, Pennsylvania 19006

3202

Kathy Cooper

From: James R Swenson <jrswenson@prodigy.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:26 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

James R Swenson

jrsvenson@prodigy.net

308H Vairo Boulevard

State College, Pennsylvania 16803

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Christine Moretti <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:26 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification. I believe in overtime pay for workers!

Sincerely,

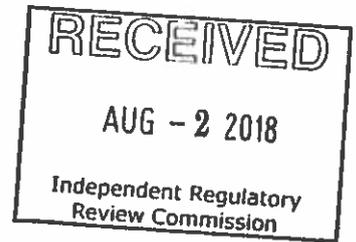

Christine Moretti
cmoretti520@gmail.com
14058 Erwin Street
Philadelphia , Pennsylvania 19116

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Dennis Horn <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:26 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Dennis Horn

dhorn351@yahoo.com

373 Heiden road bangor pa

Bangor, Pennsylvania 18013

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Sharon Newman <snewman1@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:25 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Sharon Newman

snewman1@comcast.net

581 South Creek Road

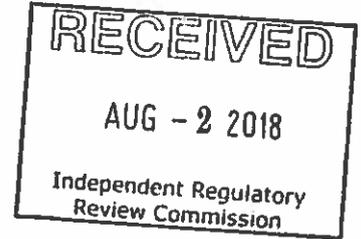

West Chester, Pennsylvania 19382

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Ronald Kozo <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:25 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Ronald Kozo
ronkstudies@hotmail.com
1901 W. Linden St.
Allentown, Pennsylvania 18104

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Gregory Milbourne <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:25 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Gregory Milbourne

milbourne@gmail.com

305 S Chester Rd

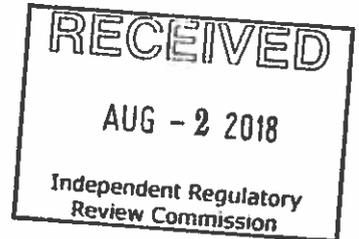

Swarthmore, Pennsylvania 19081

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Larry George <lgeorgelmt@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:25 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Larry George

lgeorge1mt@comcast.net

316 Roberts Ln.

New Castle, Pennsylvania 16105

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Tim Furlong <tsf8488@verizon.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:24 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Tim Furlong

tsf8488@verizon.net

2714 Warm Springs Ave

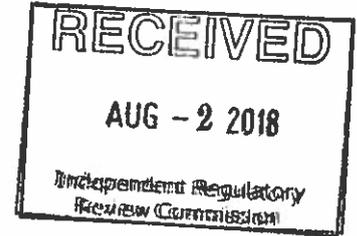

Huntingdon, Pennsylvania 16652

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Leo Houston <lbhous@msn.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:24 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Leo Houston

lbhous@msn.com

603 Sonnybrook Ct

Bethel Park, Pennsylvania 15102

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Kenneth Prinz <kprinz@apwu.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:24 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Kenneth Prinz

kprinz@apwu.org

3645 Haral Place

Treose, Pennsylvania 19053

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Stacey Hood-Marchig <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:23 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Stacey Hood-Marchig
hoodmarchig@yahoo.com
1153 Daly St.
Phila., Pennsylvania 19148

Kathy Cooper

---

From: William Roseberry <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:23 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

William Roseberry

wroseberry@yahoo.com

823 Cathill Road PO Box 496 Sellersville PA

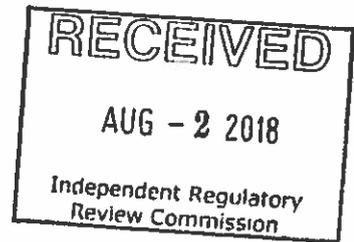

Sellersville, Pennsylvania 18960

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: susan thompson <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:22 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

susan thompson
suzzeliza@aol.com
23516 Shannondell Dr
Audubon, Pennsylvania 19403

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Brian Murray <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:22 PM
To: IRRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Brian Murray

brianmurray72@gmail.com

1133 Annin St

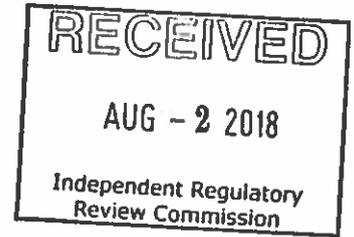

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19147-4603

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Kristie Noon <lr56kj@atlanticbb.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:22 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Kristie Noon

lr56kj@atlanticbb.net

822 Pine Knob Road

Osterburg, Pennsylvania 16667

3202

Kathy Cooper

From: Richard Reeve <rreever55@crosskeysvillage.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:22 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Richard Reever

rreever55@crosskeysvillage.net

3 Meadow Ln.

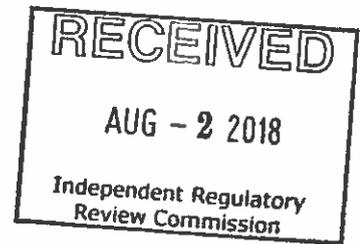

New Oxford, Pennsylvania 17350-8222

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Samantha Shewmaker <sshewmaker@paaficio.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:22 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,
Samantha M. Shewmaker

---

CWA Staff Union Member

Samantha Shewmaker

sshewmaker@paafcio.org

189 Ken Lin Drive

Myerstown, Pennsylvania 17067

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: john tronoski <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:22 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

john tronoski

iohnturbot@aol.com

718 Jones Ave.

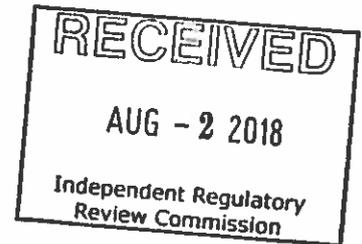

lansdale, Pennsylvania 19446

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Ellen Criswell <eicriswell@verizon.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:21 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Ellen Criswell

eicriswell@verizon.net

515 Logan Road

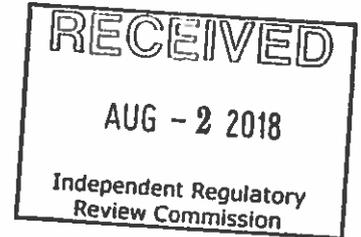

Phoenixville, Pennsylvania 19460-5659

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Daniel Safer <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:20 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

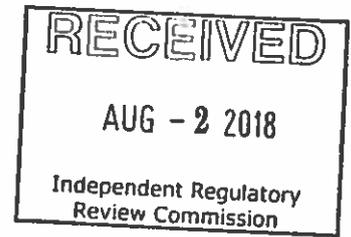

Daniel Safer
saferdan@hotmail.com
3305 Hamilton Street
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Christopher Bangs <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:20 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

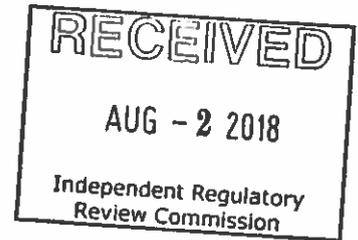

Christopher Bangs
bangs.christopher@gmail.com
4513 Peacock Ave
Alexandria, Virginia 22304

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Dianne Inghram <diannemarc1@verizon.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:20 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Dianne Inghram
diannemarc1@verizon.net
509 Morrow Ave
Carnegie, Pennsylvania 15106

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Mari McShane <mcshane@stat.cmu.edu>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:19 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Mari McShane
mcshane@stat.cmu.edu
333 Lucille St
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15218

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Edmund Skowronski <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:19 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Edmund Skowronski

edronski@gmail.com

1111 Heritage Blvd

Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania 18360

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Bob Garzone <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:19 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Bob Garzone
garzonebob@gmail.com
191 Inland Road
Ivyland, Pennsylvania 18974

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Mari McShane <mcshane@stat.cmu.edu>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:19 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Mari McShane
mcshane@stat.cmu.edu
333 Lucilla St
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15218

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Thomas Bigley <tomb@uanet.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:19 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Tom Bigley

Thomas Bigley

tomb@uanet.org

3483 Brickley Dr.

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15227

3202

Kathy Cooper

---

From: Jack Barrett <jackb1@ptd.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:19 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Jack Barrett

jackb1@ptd.net

166 AMOS CIR

BUSHKILL, Pennsylvania 18324

Kathy Cooper

3202

From: Jarrett Cloud <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:18 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

---

Jarrett Cloud

jadacloud9@gmail.com

260 Tabor Road, Apt. 409

Morris Plains, New Jersey 07950