

3202

Kathy Cooper

Form Letter F 177-226

From: William V Patterson <billpatterson2@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 4:53 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

William V Patterson
billpatterson2@comcast.net
110 Lincoln Way W
PA, Pennsylvania 17350-1314

Kathy Cooper

From: Cas Riepensell <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:40 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

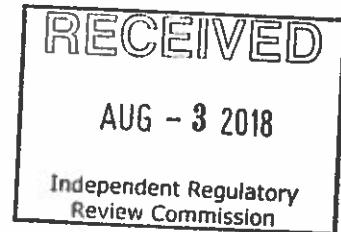

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Cas Riepensell
Chylwlab@aol.com
65 valley view cir
Lehighton, Pennsylvania 18235

Kathy Cooper

From: Robert Winokur <robtwinokur@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 3:38 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

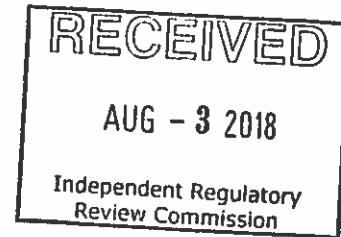

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Robert Winokur
robtwinokur@comcast.net
435 Norristown Rd.
Horsham, Pennsylvania 19044

Kathy Cooper

From: Ivan Russell <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:35 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

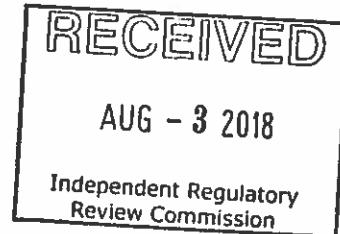

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Ivan Russell
ivanrussell@gmail.com
51 Robinhood Road
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15220-3013

Kathy Cooper

From: Dawn Roland <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:34 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

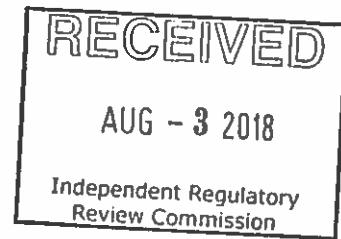

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Dawn Roland
dmhroland@gmail.com
571Narehood Road
Danville, Pennsylvania 17821

Kathy Cooper

From: Kim Miller <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:32 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Kim Miller
kimkmillee@hotmail.com
467 Longridge Dr
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15243

Kathy Cooper

From: William Runkle <wgr0910@msn.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:31 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

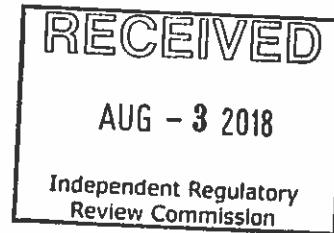

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

William Runkle
wgr0910@msn.com
1610 Raub Rd.
Felton, Pennsylvania 17322

Kathy Cooper

From: Kathleen Lucas <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:20 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Lucas
kathleenlucas@gmail.com
519 Wood St
Ellwood City, Pennsylvania 16117

Kathy Cooper

From: Jason Miller <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:20 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

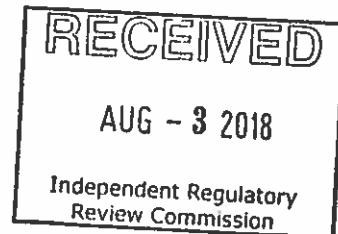

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Jason Miller
miller7248@gmail.com
61 Roycroft Ave
Pittsburgh , Pennsylvania 15228

Kathy Cooper

From: Gene Parsons <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:20 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Gene Parsons
geneparsons@yahoo.com
Maple Ln
Sewickley , Pennsylvania 15143

Kathy Cooper

From: Matthew Reppert <mreppert@rcn.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:17 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

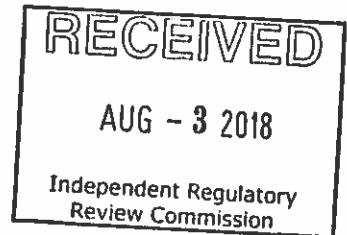

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Matthew Reppert
mreppert@rcn.com
2191 Pinehurst Road
Bethlehem, Pennsylvania 18018

Kathy Cooper

From: Catherine Scott <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:17 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Catherine Scott
pcscott33@gmail.com
1005 Chandler St
PA, Pennsylvania 19111

Kathy Cooper

From: I. Clark Ruppert Jr <cruppert1@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:16 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

I. Clark Ruppert Jr
cruppert1@comcast.net
2191 Derry Rd
York, PA, Pennsylvania 17408

Kathy Cooper

From: Gary Kendall <gkendall@ptd.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:15 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Gary Kendall
gkendall@ptd.net
P.O. Box 360
NEW BERLIN, Pennsylvania 17855

Kathy Cooper

From: Charles Prince <charles_prince@verizon.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:14 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Charles Prince
charles_prince@verizon.net
1636 E. Chocolate Ave.
Hershey, Pennsylvania 17033

Kathy Cooper

From: Rev. Dan Hinkle <dwh323@msn.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:09 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Rev. Dan Hinkle
dwh323@msn.com
11 Pen St.
Manheim Twp, Pennsylvania 17601

Kathy Cooper

From: Susan Marcello <callmesue@verizon.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:08 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Susan Marcello
callmesue@verizon.net
308 Donnelly Ave
ASTON, Pennsylvania 19014

Kathy Cooper

From: John R. Thomas <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:06 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

John R. Thomas
jonrthomas@yahoo.com
405 Rodman Avenue
Jenkintown, Pennsylvania 19046

Kathy Cooper

From: Margaret Reiter <mreiter@ptd.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:01 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

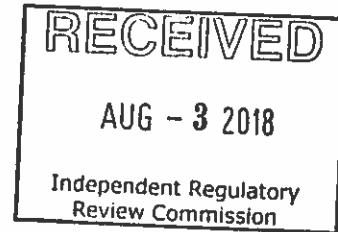

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Margaret Reiter
mreiter@ptd.net
151 View Court
Saylorsburg, Pennsylvania 18353

Kathy Cooper

From: howard and arlene leiter <dotter0651@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:03 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

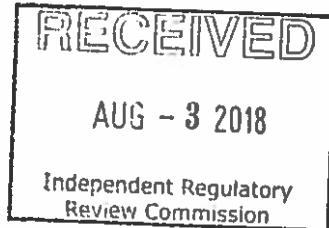

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

howard and arlene leiter
dotter0651@comcast.net
12 yarrow way
langhorne,pa., Pennsylvania 19047

Kathy Cooper

From: barry weiss <bweiss10842@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 8:00 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

barry weiss
bweiss10842@comcast.net
10842 lockart ct apt b
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19116

Kathy Cooper

From: Ryan Helms <ryan.helms7@icloud.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:59 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Ryan Helms
ryan.helms7@icloud.com
26 Walnut Drive West
Bernville, Pennsylvania 19506

Kathy Cooper

From: Clifford Johnston <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 5:55 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Clifford Johnston
clijo77@gmail.com
3147 Grahamton Road
PA, Pennsylvania 16858

Kathy Cooper

From: greta Aul <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:50 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

greta Aul
gretaaul@gmail.com
917 Columbia ave
Lanacaster, Pennsylvania 17603

Kathy Cooper

From: Henry & Linda Friedman <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:44 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: We Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

We are writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

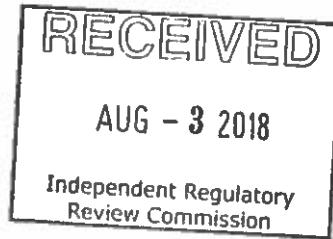

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Henry & Linda Friedman
lindhank2@gmail.com
7 Norwood Ave - Apt. 3B
Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania 19010-2721

Kathy Cooper

From: Carol Whiteside <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:28 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

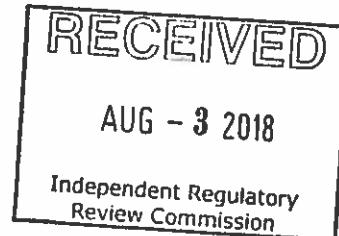

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Carol Whiteside
carolhasper@yahoo.com
548 Virginia Ave.
Ambridge, Pennsylvania 15003

Kathy Cooper

From: Rolf Radicke <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:33 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

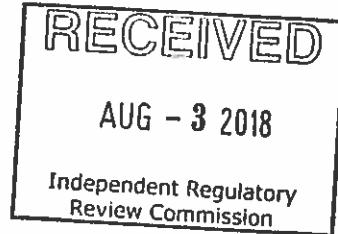

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Rolf Radicke
rolrolrad@yahoo.com
1717 Bath Rd, Apt G17
Bristol, Pennsylvania 19007

Kathy Cooper

From: Peter Hecht <prhecht@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:23 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

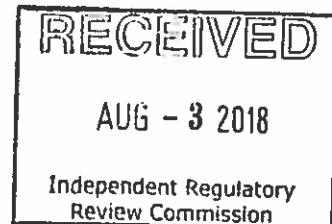

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Peter Hecht
prhecht@comcast.net
704 Montrose St
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19147

Kathy Cooper

From: Thomas Dunlap <samnul@wpa.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:34 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

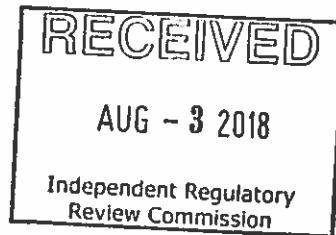

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dunlap
samnul@wpa.net
300 American Legion RD
Unity Twp, Pennsylvania 15650

Kathy Cooper

From: Thomas Campanini <tachair@verizon.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 5:36 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Thomas Campanini
tachair@verizon.net
1030 Crest Way, Apt 204
York, Pennsylvania 17403

Kathy Cooper

From: Martin Hecht <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 5:33 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Martin Hecht
mmartinjesse@gmail.com
6810 meade street
pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15208

Kathy Cooper

From: Joan Hazbun <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:35 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

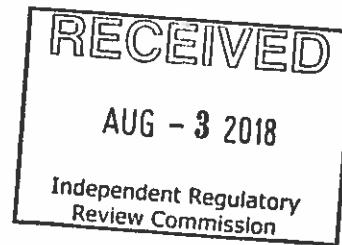

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Joan Hazbun
jchazbun6@gmail.com
6 Michele Drive
Media, Pennsylvania 19063

Kathy Cooper

From: CLAIRE MORGAN <jbcm591@echoes.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:31 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

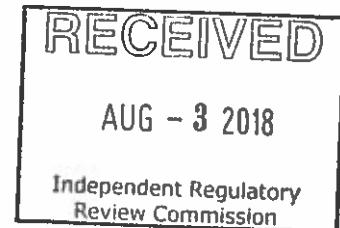

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

CLAIRE MORGAN
ibcm591@echoes.net
428 CHAPMAN LAKE ROAD
Jermyn, Pennsylvania 18433

Kathy Cooper

From: Jason Morris <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:01 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Jason Morris
jasonmorris74@gmail.com
101 Water St Apt 2
Brownsville, Pennsylvania 15417

Kathy Cooper

From: Mike Stianche <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:28 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Mike Stianche
669spkfitter@gmail.com
1027 wynnewood dr
northampton, Pennsylvania 18067

Kathy Cooper

From: John Lepley <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:32 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

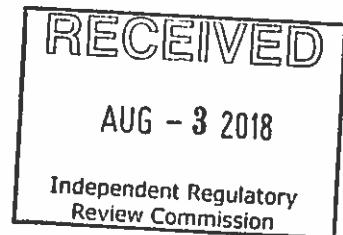

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

John Lepley
cj_lepley@yahoo.com
1672 Norsen Drive
Pittsburgh , Pennsylvania 15243

Kathy Cooper

From: Maurice Cobb <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 5:29 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Maurice Cobb
rapidresponse1688@gmail.com
3971 Sunnycrest Dr
PA, Pennsylvania 17109

Kathy Cooper

From: Diane Cicco <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:28 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

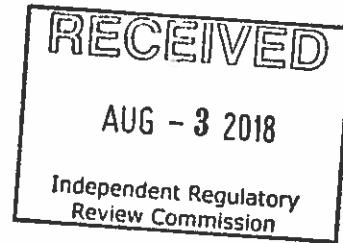

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Diane Cicco
amber.marie324@yahoo.com
35 overbrook rd
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15235

Kathy Cooper

From: Laura Horowitz <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:21 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

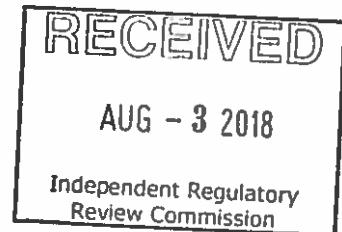

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification. They have earned it.

Sincerely,

Laura Horowitz
12newmoons@gmail.com
6544 Darlington Road
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15217

Kathy Cooper

From: Sherry Dinnen <garysherry@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 7:12 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Sherry Dinnen
garysherry@comcast.net
2912 Grandview Dr
Allison Park, Pennsylvania 15101

Kathy Cooper

From: Joan Connolly <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:54 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Joan Connolly
joanc777@hotmail.com
9 Madison Estates
Moscow, Pennsylvania 18444

Kathy Cooper

From: Rev. Dan Hinkle <dwh323@msn.com>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 6:11 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Rev. Dan Hinkle
dwh323@msn.com
113 Pentail Dr.
Lancaster, Pennsylvania 17601

Kathy Cooper

From: Jason Sellers <jsellers8@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 5:41 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

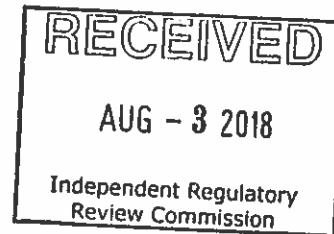

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Jason Sellers
jsellers8@comcast.net
2614 Southern Hills Rd
York, Pennsylvania 17403

Kathy Cooper

From: art psitos <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 5:02 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

art psitos
artpsitos@hotmail.com
4630 pheasant run ct
Bethlehem, Pennsylvania 18020

Kathy Cooper

From: Dennis Keller <dkeller1429@comcast.net>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 5:01 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

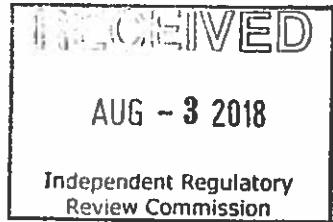

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Dennis Keller
dkeller1429@comcast.net
1429 Old Reliance Rd
Middletown, Pennsylvania 17057

Kathy Cooper

From: Lawrence Ralph <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Thursday, August 02, 2018 4:46 PM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

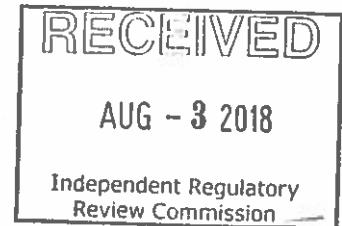

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely, L J Ralph

Lawrence Ralph
larryralph@hotmail.com
10 Gregory Ave
Bradford, Pennsylvania 16701

Kathy Cooper

From: Robert Weiner <bob@kwconsultinginc.com>
Sent: Friday, August 03, 2018 9:42 AM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Robert Weiner
bob@kwconsultinginc.com
1433 Denniston Street
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15217

Kathy Cooper

From: CYNTHIA COLLINS-SONNEFELD <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Friday, August 03, 2018 10:01 AM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 3 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

CYNTHIA COLLINS-SONNEFELD
cciw380@yahoo.com
215 PROVIDENCE FORGE RD
ROYERSFORD, Pennsylvania 19468

Kathy Cooper

From: CYNTHIA COLLINS-SONNEFELD <info@email.actionnetwork.org>
Sent: Friday, August 03, 2018 10:01 AM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

CYNTHIA COLLINS-SONNEFELD
cciw380@yahoo.com
215 PROVIDENCE FORGE RD
ROYERSFORD, Pennsylvania 19468

Kathy Cooper

From: Patty Johnson <local201@ibewlocal201.org>
Sent: Friday, August 03, 2018 10:12 AM
To: IRRC
Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely,

Patty Johnson
local201@ibewlocal201.org
3614 Darlington Rd.
Darlington, Pennsylvania 16115