3202 Form Letter F 243 - 263

From: Sent: To: Subject: Micki Reese <micki.reese@comcast.net> Monday, August 06, 2018 8:24 AM IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Micki Reese
micki.reese@comcast.net
807 N 25th Street
Reading, Pennsylvania 19601

From: Sent: To:

Subject:

Ingrid Zemanick <alaina8@msn.com> Monday, August 06, 2018 7:17 AM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Ingrid Zemanick

alaina8@msn.com

2290 Country Club Dr

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15241

From: Sent: To: Subject:

Paul Bonaquest <ninja93@adelphia.net> Sunday, August 05, 2018 11:03 PM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory
Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Paul Bonaquest
ninja93@adelphia.net
6493 Lakeside Drive
Sharpsville, Pennsylvania 16150

From: Sent: To: Dorothy Kotansky <info@email.actionnetwork.org>

Sunday, August 05, 2018 10:43 PM

IRRC

Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Dorothy Kotansky

dottiek48@outlook.com

1611 Spruce Street

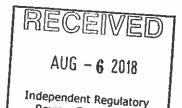

Bloomsburg , Pennsylvania 17815

From: Sent: To: Subject:

Michael Itle <occam03@comcast.net> Sunday, August 05, 2018 7:51 PM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Michael Itle occam03@comcast.net

6543 Hollow Drive

East Petersburg, Pennsylvania 17520

From: Sent: To: Ann Marie Yanuzzi <annmprez@hazleton.net>

Sunday, August 05, 2018 12:36 PM

IRRC

Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Ann Marie Yanuzzi

annmprez@hazleton.net

653 Lafayette Court

Hazleton , Pennsylvania 18201

From: Sent: To: Edward Heide <info@email.actionnetwork.org>

Sunday, August 05, 2018 10:30 AM

IRRC

Subject:

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Edward Heide

edwardheide@aol.com

2922 Brentwood Avenue

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15227

From: Sent: To: Subject: Kathleen Furness <info@email.actionnetwork.org> Saturday, August 04, 2018 11:24 PM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Kathleen Furness
kmfurness26@gmail.com
201 N 3rd St
Allentown, Pennsylvania 18102

From: Sent: To:

Subject:

Marc J Mancini <info@email.actionnetwork.org>

Saturday, August 04, 2018 8:49 PM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Marc J Mancini
wolfgang2286@yahoo.com
1529 Berryman Ave
South Park , Pennsylvania 15129

From:

Patricia Chapman <info@email.actionnetwork.org>

Sent:

Saturday, August 04, 2018 7:29 PM

To:

IRRC

Subject:

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Patricia Chapman

p.puerto122208@gmail.com

2030 Cr 2954

Alba, Texas 75410

From:

Tania Malven <info@email.actionnetwork.org>

Sent:

Saturday, August 04, 2018 6:22 PM

To:

IRRC

Subject:

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Tania Malven
tmalven@yahoo.com
2228 E. Kleindale Rd
Tucson, Arizona 85719

From:

Jeff Sievert <info@email.actionnetwork.org> Saturday, August 04, 2018 5:42 PM

Sent: To:

IRRC

Subject:

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely.

Jeff Sievert

ieff.sievert@gmail.com

731 Fulton St

Philadelphia , Pennsylvania 19147

From: Sent: To: Michelle Nelson <chelle1@ptd.net> Saturday, August 04, 2018 12:09 PM

IRRC

Subject: I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Michelle Nelson
chelle1@ptd.net
4523 Rose Drive
Emmaus, Pennsylvania 18049

From: Sent: To: Subject: Ron Ennis <local268@ptd.net> Saturday, August 04, 2018 9:04 AM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Ron Ennis
local268@ptd.net
9865 Old 22
Breinigsville, Pennsylvania 18031

From: Sent:

To: Subject: Dave Vinski <info@email.actionnetwork.org>

Saturday, August 04, 2018 7:57 AM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Dave Vinski

swpaalf@yahoo.com

78 Wilson Street

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15223

From: Sent: To: Subject:

Ellen Poist <epoist@ssjphila.org> Saturday, August 04, 2018 7:22 AM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely.

Ellen Poist

epoist@ssiphila.org

9701 Germantown Ave.

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19118

From: Sent:

To:

William K8ng <info@email.actionnetwork.org> Saturday, August 04, 2018 5:35 AM

IRRC

Subject:

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

William K8ng
copnhagnman2@yahoo.com
201 11th street
Windber, Pennsylvania 15963

From: Sent: To: Subject:

Janis Kinslow <kinslowja@comcast.net> Friday, August 03, 2018 10:54 PM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)], Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Sincerely.

Janis Kinslow
kinslowja@comcast.net
514 Schick Rd
Aston, Pennsylvania 19014

From: Sent:

To: Subject: Christine Gutekunst <cjfullgut@msn.com>

Friday, August 03, 2018 10:00 PM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Christine Gutekunst
cifullqut@msn.com
901 Apple Tree Rd
Moscow, Pennsylvania 18444

From: Sent:

To: Subject: Rudolph Keller <rckeller@dejazzd.com> Friday, August 03, 2018 8:24 PM

IRRC

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

RECEIVED

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

Rudolph Keller
rckeller@dejazzd.com
71 Lutz Rd.
Boyertown, Pennsylvania 19512

From: Sent: To: T Bruster

Verizon.net > Friday, August 03, 2018 8:07 PM

IRRC

Subject:

I Support the New Overtime Regulation.

AUG - 6 2018

Independent Regulatory Review Commission

George Bedwick,

Dear Chairman George Bedwick:

I am writing to support the Department of Labor and Industry's new regulation "Amendments to 34 Pa. Code Chapter 231 regarding Overtime Pay" [Minimum Wage #12-106 (IRRC# 3202)]. Governor Wolf's proposed change regarding the Executive, Administrative, and Professional (EAP) salaried worker exemptions is a crucial step toward preventing worker misclassification on the job and the exploitation of labor.

In Pennsylvania, there are an estimated 465,000 workers who currently fall into the EAP exemption but would not be exempt under the proposed regulation. The current federal level for workers included in the Fair Labor Standards Act is $23,660, however, the state level can be as low as $8,600; the new regulation raises the threshold to $48,000.

In 1975, more than 60% of salaried workers nationwide were protected by overtime laws, but today it's only 8%. This regulation is crucial for working men and women because of the continuous increases to the costs of living and housing after 40 years since the last regulation.

When President Trump rejected the U.S. Department of Labor's new overtime protections American workers lost over $1 billion in their yearly salary. We must act at the state and local levels to take on the responsibility when workers are abandoned at the federal level. Workers should be compensated for every hour they work, regardless of their classification.

T Bruster

bruster525@verizon.net

St Paul Circle

Bellefonte, Pennsylvania 16823