Raising the licensing renewal rates makes it really hard for a practicing therapist. Some of us are working on commission, only getting a percentage of each service we do. My commission is 50% on the net total, after taxes, I'm approximately only getting 30-35% of that. I work hard for my money as does every other Licensed therapist out there.

We spent thousands of dollars on our education and you want more money out of us? We have to pay for our insurance and our continuing education and you STILL WANT MORE MONEY OUT OF US?

There are single parents out there, there are people out there barely making ends meet and you're adding to their burdens.
