To whom it may concern:

I respect that an increase would be necessary but to jump $125 from $75 is ridiculous. We went for so many years without a license. Now, we get one in which is Fantastic to weed out the one's that weren't even graduates from a professional school. There are still locations opening up in Malls that I am amazed on even in business in the 1st place.

To be a cosmologists, they don't even do a practical anymore. Come on! Unless you can provide me a list of where my money is going, you are crazy to even ask for it.

Massage Therapist are lucky if they start out $15 per service. We don't have health benefits. We are required to have 24 CEUS that range anywhere from $100 - $600 per class.

I work for a Franchise. Becoming a medical certified massage therapist WILL NOT benefit me one bit.

You sincerely need to rethink this fee. Even if I would move to Delaware my license fee would only be $125.

Thank you for your time & consideration in this matter

Sincerely
Kristi Arcement, LMT
