I think this is outrageous! As a massage therapist, I make good money, but this is a very physical job. We have to pay for insurance (medical/dental/vision/personal liability), continuing education, and CPR all out of pocket, and usually no 401k offered by employers. Take all the negatives off the top of what we make, and this is actually a minimal paying profession. I will still do it regardless, because I am doing this to help people with their ailments. However, the harder it is to make a living, the less effective we become. The state can get more money from people and companies that have and make a lot of money. Thank you for your consideration.
