Subject: Question about proposed behavioral health regulations

Good morning!

I have a question regarding the new, proposed behavioral health regulations that came out on 8/4/18. My questions are specifically regarding the "ABA" section. I currently own a small practice that offers Behavior Specialist Consultant services and Therapeutic Staff Support services for children with an ASD diagnosis. I have a Masters in Special Education and Post-Masters Certification in Behavioral Intervention in Autism (these are the courses required for BCBA certification). I am not a licensed BCBA but am a licensed Behavior Specialist. I am wondering if I would have to become a BCBA according to the new regulations in order to continue being the clinical director of my practice? Thanks again for your time!
