Hello, I writing today in support of Pennsylvania taking part in the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI). I have lived in in Pennsylvania for over 25 years and currently live in the City of Pittsburgh. As a mother I have seen my youngest daughter develop asthma shortly after we moved to the city from State College. The Pittsburgh area is one of the most polluted for fine particle air pollution in the nation. Reducing carbon pollution is crucial to the health of or residents and the planet. As a civil engineer, I have seen the results of increased rainfall events on our infrastructure. It is largely agreed that heavy rainfall from storms has been on the rise over the last few decades due to the temperature increase from climate change. Design standards have not kept up with the rapid changes in our climate. I believe it is due time for residents, industries and policy makers to due all we can to reduce carbon emissions and RGGI is one step closer to achieving a balance.
