It is hard to believe that complicated and expensive regulations must be devised by politicians who still don't understand the CO2 is green plant food!

Yes there has been increases in CO2 but when looking at the CO2 from the past it is not as high as it was during the last Ice Age.

Please show some common sense and do not institute this foolish policy that will not reduce temperatures significantly in the future.

Just call it what it is. Another tax that will raise the cost of using Natural gas. One of the most efficient and least polluting fuels in the world.

We have enough taxes and regulations that raise the cost of heating homes. Don't add this too them.
