Our joining the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative is absurd. There has been very little to no change to our temps in regards to raw data. The only increase that can be seen are those that were adjust to give a false impress. This can clearly be seen when going through the data year by year. Examining data released for year to year quickly shows how the past has been cooled to make the present warmer. It is utter nonsense and total fraud. Fire are no where near the levels in the 30's. Hurricanes are not out of the normal range. The hottest year on record data when examined turns out to be false. Examining temperature data form the 30 that has not been adjusted shows temps much higher in the past. Just looking at highs and lows from the 30's based on the actual record shows the trends. It also shows as we progress down the timeline temps are actually getting cooler. There was also a 15 year pause in temps that climate scientists worked hard to explain way (took them almost the full 15 years to do so and the excuse used was extremely lame and debunked). Can't have there funding cut. The whole hockey stick Mann came up with was a sham (his tree ring data crashed so he substituted a computer model that fit his narrative). This crap goes on and on. This game being played is not to save the planet nor save ourselves form climate disaster. It is all about controlling people. Nothing else. You can see clearly the elites playing this game and not believing there own BS. A great example is Obama and his Beach front property off Martha's vineyard <https://nypost.com/2019/08/22/barack-and-michelle-obama-are-buying-15m-estate-in-marthas-vineyard/>. If sea level is rising then why would you buy a 14 million dollar house at near sea level. He is not the only one!!!! This theory also falls apart when we look at geological history. We have had ice ages with CO2 levels above 2000 ppm and warm periods with levels lower than today. To be honest the theory regarding the magnetic field within the sun and its affects looks more accurate. The model predicts the warm 20th century, the mini Ice age, the medieval warm period, the roman warm period all the way back to the ice age. According to DATA over the next 30 years it looks as though these fields will cancel. If this theory is proven correct (and it likely will be) then we will be heading into a cool period that will last to 2050. This game you are playing is an utter sham and will destroy this state. Shame on you.
