Comments entered:

Since 2009, carbon emissions from power plants in RGGI states have dropped 47%, while economic growth outpaced the rest of the country by 31%. That is amazingly good!

Public health benefits from air quality improvements are estimated at nearly $6 billion.

To date, RGGI has raised more than $1.3 billion for energy-efficiency and renewable energy projects.

By joining RGGI, Pennsylvania could reduce its carbon pollution by 180 million tons by 2030.
