As look at our environment it is very Precious and needs to be around for our childern, childrens. The way of life is also precious, supporting your family is a high responsibility for parents for their families. We need to have a balance in life and when one side goes off from center then an imbalance comes about. The balance is a good environment and away to give a living. I work FOR the Department of Transportation for 36 plus years and I was involved with salt managment and also SEAP program these two where all about the environment and ways to make it better. I do feel that we should always be looking for a safer and better ways , is a must but to total throw it into reverse is totally the wrong way. When we do that , we do damage in both sides because as any new program we have preconceived ideals but sometimes they are wrong and by moving slower we have time to adjust were needed to come out with the best plans. I have seen it on the state and good practices where done away with never to return. Just because we move forward does not mean it's good and the out come could take decades to come out of and maybe never. Thank you for your time.
