I am all for effective ways to help cut emissions. However, continuing to tax PA residents to help support some pet projects that never work or are properly carried out is getting old. Just like the emissions testing for Dauphin county. That doesn't work because you have people driving into Dauphin county all the time from other counties who don't have to have their car emissions tested. So now we have to pay for something that isn't going to work. That just goes to show that our state is NOT being run properly. Thanks for this opportunity to comment. I think if we allow this to go through it isn't going to be any better than the emission testing. Vote NO!
