RGGI is a step in the right direction however it does not do NEARLY enough to free us from the environmentally detrimental effects of fracking. We need to act NOW to stop fracking in PA like so many environmentally conscious states have already done. Being a "successful" big exporter of natural gas and coal will not make much difference if we render our water undrinkable and our air unbreathable. We must prioritize the health of Pennsylvania over profits while we still can.
