To whom it may concern,

My name is Sara Trimmer and I am a cannabis pharmacist. I have been working in this industry for over 4 years. I have had consultations with thousands of patients over the years from all ages, races, and walks of life. The cannabis community loves to share information as they want others to feel better and they also want to learn. The cannabis plant is an amazing one that can bring much relief to many. From helping a patient wean off all of their opiates and finally being able to mow his own grass to helping a veteran with PTSD find a strain to enjoy being around people to an autistic kiddo who would settle down and listen in a classroom environment. It's having a pharmacist on staff who can take the time to ask about other therapies, drug interactions, what strains and forms they have tried and the patients' willingness to trust me that have helped create success stories. I could go on for hours about the amazing individuals that have walked through the dispensary door over the years and have entrusted their health and quality of life to me. It's an honor and a privilege and one that I don't take lightly. To keep patients safe and ensure better outcomes, health care providers need to remain in the dispensary not at the front desk but made available to all patients no matter where they are in their cannabis journey.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter.

Sincerely,
Sara Trimmer, PharmD, RPh
