Dear Ms. Molchanow,

I am writing as a physician who sees the impact of the environment on a host of chronic, quality-of-life limiting (and costly) diseases daily to strongly voice my concerns that environmental education may be removed from our PA State standards.

This would be a giant step backwards in the education of our children.

This education can be (and should be) incorporated into a variety of other required fields (chemistry, biology, government and policy, for example) without undue costs, stress to schools and teachers.

Thanks for your consideration of this important matter.
