I want to lend my voice of support this article. I hope to decrease confusion for patients. I would also recommend a consideration for further clarification as to the type of care they are providing—homeopathic vs medical vs nursing—and the degree of education each level provides and has obtained, as often this is not clear to patient thus they are misled in the type and level of care they are getting.

This is a great start to helping protect patients, I only hope its not too little too late.

Thank you

sara
