I'm writing to support PA-DEP's proposal to set standards to protect public health from VOCs and climate pollution from oil and gas operations in Pennsylvania.

While these are a crucial step, I'm calling on PA-DEP to strengthen its proposal by closing existing loopholes for low-producing wells, remove provisions that reduce frequency of inspections for some oil and gas operators, and set these standards for all new and existing oil and gas operations.

For too long the safety of PA citizens and the safety of the world's environment has been ignored. It is time for citizens to settle the score with the firms who have bought their way through processes intended to protect us. Get these safeguards in place immediately.
